

Cocoricó Cocoricó

Directed by Fernando Gomes
2003 - 52x14'
2004/2005 - 52x12'
2005/2006 - 52x12'
Color

+ Selling Points

- The characters and situations stimulate the curiosity and the will to learn of the viewer.
- The target audience are the young viewers (from 2 to 8 years). But a grown-up may also enjoy the program.

Synopsis

Cocoricó has gathered a legion of fans all around its original country of production: Brazil. In a house in the countryside, Julio and his friends go through different situations. His grandma's delicious snacks and his granddad's creative ideas and solutions just make everything more enthusiastic! In an attractive and playful way, the series stimulate the young viewer's emotional and intellectual development.

Production Company: TV Cultura

Language: Portuguese Subtitles Available: None

Territories Available: All territories except Brazil

Country: Brazil

About the Director: Fernando Gomes graduated in Visual Arts at FAAP. He performs as an actor as well since 1986, when he was working at TV Cultura, where he also was a puppeteer. Since then, he's been developing most of his work in this area: he created and manufactured the characters in several TV shows, including Cocoricó's.

Awards:

- "Best Children TV Series" - APCA trophy (Brasil, 1996)
- "UNESCO AWARD for Best Latin America and Caribbean Video:" DIVERCINE: IV International Young and Children Film Festival (Uruguai, 1997)
- "Best Fiction Series (6 Years Olds)" - I Festival Prix Jeunesse Iberoamericano (Chile, 2003)
- "Best TV Series" - Festival De Cine Infantil De Ciudad Guyana (Venezuela, 2004)

ADDITIONAL INFO

Material Available:

- Analogic Beta (NTSC)
- DVD (NTSC)
- There is one episode dubbed in English and Spanish for presentation.

Market History:

- Angola (TV Popular channels 1/2)
- Mozambique (N/Tech)
- Venezuela (VIVE)